

Hungry, Hungry Madu!

Supplies:

- 4 skateboards
- 4 large plastic bowls
- balloons
- markers
- large, flat surface such as a gym floor or large classroom

Directions:

Write the different ways we taste and see that the Lord is good from Psalm 34. Grades 5-6 can copy from their butcher paper onto the balloons and the teacher can write them out ahead of time for grades 1-4 if the activity is not being done with the older children.

Place the balloons in the center of the room and divide the children into four teams.

Give each team a skateboard and a bowl. The children should pick one member of their team to be Madu and one member of the team to make Madu move. The child who is Madu will lay on the skateboard on his/her stomach and the “Madu mover” will hold his/her legs. “Madu” will hold the plastic bowl.

On the teacher’s command the “Madus” will all be pushed to the center holding their bowls upside down. The purpose is to sit the bowl down on balloons and then be pulled back to their team to deposit the balloon. The game continues until all the balloons are gone. The winning team is the team with the most balloons.

Ask each team to read the text off their balloons to the group. Remind them that just as we get hungry physically and need food the Bible teaches that our soul hungers for God. Tell them that the words on their balloons are ways that we can satisfy that hunger and ways that He provides for us.

Continue taking turns with each team member as Madu as long as time allows.
